

Panthers Parent Corner

February 23, 2010

Avoid the dreaded PGA. Not the Professional Golfer's Association but the Post Game Analysis. If you find yourself doing most of the talking as you're breaking down the game on the way home, it's probably time to change the subject.

As parents, we have a hard job watching our children playing sports of any kind. If it didn't go well, they are probably already beating themselves up. Let them come to you when they are prepared to discuss the events of the day!

